Baseball Meeting.

An there-organisation meeting held in the town hall last week Mr J Gannon was elected president; A Dairmont elected vice-president; Edward Mayer, Sec-treas. Wm Irwin manager; Ph Enders assistant manager. A committee will be appointed to arrange for a campaign for the coming season.

It was suggested that a second team be organised, to act as a feeder team to the Seniors.

Mr Parker After a New Outfit

Mr Parker, the well known exhibitor of silent movies, is said to be leaving the first of the month for Regina, Sask. His intention is to take down his present Victor machine with which he has been entertaining the countryside the past few years, and turn it in for a new and up-to-date talkie outfit.

Mr Parker's intention is to remain in the Saskatchewan city for a week or ten days, to thoroughly acquaint himself with the workings of the new machine.

For a Regular Movie Night.

Movie picture fans who have expressed a desire that movie films be shown here regular every week will have their wish gratified if a project now afoot meets with success. The idea is to have a co operative syndicate formed, to back the project. The business men have been approached, and a majority of these seem to favor the plan.

Saturday has been suggested as the letter day for the pictures, with a showing in the afternoon, and another in the evening.

Wheat Club Organised.

A Junior Wheat Club meeting was held here on March 12. A good deal of interest was shown by the boys, and they seemed quite anxious to take a try for the Provincial Wheat Cup; and here's hoping they do win the grand award.

Mr Knox McKinnon was presiding; and Mr Jas Becker, our Pool agent, was acting secretary for the day.

Mr Hallman, field man for the Department of Agriculture, gave an outline of the club work in the Province. Last year there were over 1700 members in grain clubs—wheat, oats and barley clubs; and each member had registered seed grain.

By this means the Department has been able to raise the standard of grain over 50 p.c. "For it is the young fellow who takes the most interest and is the easier taught in the value of 'Al stock,'" says Mr Hallman.

After Mr Hallman's speech, a guarantee of 16 members was given him to form a club. That day 12 young men signed up for the new club.

Mr Becker has the handling of the registered grain, as the Wheat Pool is paying half the expenses on the wheat.—K. McK.

Mrs. Fisher Suggests, for Dinner:

Canadian Fish Cakes: Any meal is a suitable time for serving fish cakes but if they are to be served for breakfast it is perhaps most convenient to make them the night before and keep them chilled until cooking time. Take a cup of Canadian flaked, cooked fish, mix with it a cup and a half of mashed potatoes, one beaten egg, one tablespoon of butter, salt and pepper to suit the taste and, if desired, a half teaspoon of onion juice; beat the mixture until fluffy, then form into balls or cakes and roll in finely sifted, dry bread crumbs. Saute or fry in deep fat, which is hot enough to brown an inch cube of bread in forty seconds. Drain the cakes and serve hot, using tomato sauce with them if desired.

Any kind of Canadian cooked or canned fish may be used. If dried salt fish is used it should first be "freshened" by tearing it into strips and covering the strips with luke-warm water. How much "freshening" will be required depends on individual taste. Changing the water frequently will hasten freshening. Allow the dried fish to simmer, not boil, until cooked.

Canadian Fish and Shellfish are especially good foods because they are so easily digested and are rich in vitamins and health-giving mineral substances.

Universal Fingerprinting

For some reason or another, hard to explain, proposals that citizens submit themselves to voluntary fingerprinting as a means of subsequent identification in the event of emergency, have met with nothing but indifference, if not actual aversion on the part of the general public in this country.

This is somewhat surprising when one considers with what enthusiasm this proposal has been received in the United States and some other countries where numerous organizations have taken up the movement and have been successful in interesting the average citizen to a considerable degree.

Possibly the fact that hitherto fingerprinting has been associated solely with the identification of criminals may have something to do with the average Canadian's "cold shoulder" attitude towards fingerprinting. For the general run of Canadian citizens is essentially law abiding and is apt to resent the slightest hint that he is not; and this mistaken viewpoint towards fingerprinting may account for his attitude.

On the other hand the diffidence with which suggestions and invitations for fingerprinting on wholesale but voluntary basis have been received in this country to date may be due to lack of knowledge of the benefits which such certain means of identification would confer generally, not only upon the individual but on the entire community. In all probability this is the principal reason for lack of interest in and response to this method of indexing for identification in Canada.

Has Many Values

A dozen ways in which universal fingerprinting would be of value to the individual citizen and the community in toto were set forth recently in a letter appearing in an Ontario daily newspaper by John Tenbroeck of Toronto, Ont., as follows:

"1. Elimination of election frauds; 2. Elimination of insurance frauds; 3. Minimization of immigration and migration frauds; 4. Prevention of fraudulent evidence and repudiation of signature on deeds in legal proceedings; 5. Elimination of impersonations; 6. Confirmation of marriages and bigamy rendered impossible; 7. Prevention of the substitution of a corpse for the body of another; 8. Elimination of dope fiends, insane persons and alcoholics;

"9. Regarded by the writer as very important; (a) Prevention of the physically unfit from obtaining an automobile license, (b) License carriers would be unable to fool police by giving a false name when caught violating the law, (c) Persons permanently deprived of driving privileges would be permanently ruled off the highway, (d) As a consequence of better operation an immediate decrease in our appalling death rate on the highways would result;

"10. As a result of decreased deaths and injuries on the highways there would be a corresponding drop in automobile insurance rates; 11. People suffering from loss of memory could be quickly identified, saving relatives money and perhaps a lifetime of worry and uncertainty; 12. Establishment of the true identity of the unknown dead, thereby saving the public the cost of burying them. The number of people buried in nameless graves was 46,000 last year, costing the public from $50 to $150 each for their burial."

Reducing Accident Toll

As Mr. Tenbroeck intimates there can be no question of the value of universal fingerprinting could be made to exert to reducing the toll of accident and death on the highways, if it were made to serve some of the purposes he outlines in his item No. 9. The growing toll of loss of life and property from this cause is verified in recent statistics for last year and is already being reflected in increased automobile insurance rates.

On this ground and this alone, there should be general support for the movement for universal fingerprinting on the part of all who themselves make reasonable use of the automobile and the highways and who are constantly endangered by a reckless minority.

"Millions of men were fingerprinted during the World War, not as a criminal measure, but it was done for the protection of the men," said Mr. Tenbroeck, urging support for universal fingerprinting. "It provided," he reminds those who may have forgotten the fact, "an inviolable record through which identity could never be lost, through death, through injury, loss of memory or any other way incident."

"To-day in many countries, and especially in the United States of America, universal fingerprinting is progressing by leaps and bounds. Rotary, Lions, Kiwanis, Klummen, Y.M.C.A. clubs etc. in many localities and States, where drives are being put on for civil fingerprinting registrations, are solidly behind this move. The American Legion, women's clubs, church societies, etc., are working for it."

Police Approval Anticipated

Indications are that support will be given the movement in Canada at the annual convention of police chief constables in the summer, as the arguments put forward by Mr. Tenbroeck are reprinted with approval in a recent issue of the Canadian Police Bulletin with a suggestion that "police chiefs should be taking every opportunity to impress the advantages of universal fingerprinting upon the public whom the proposal is designed to serve."

Have Economic Value

Birds Are Also Cheerful Things To Have Around Neighborhood

Birds have an economic value in eating harmful insects and weed seeds. They have an ethical worth in cherishing our days with their songs and flash of color. They may be induced to take up their abode in our own yards if we offer them a residence, rent free. Encourage your boys to construct one or more of these bird dwellings in their spare hours. This will be good for both boys and birds.

Summer birds, which do not require houses, may be lured to our neighborhoods by putting out bits of feathers, wool and twine in the nest-building season.

Crown Of Conquered Ruler

Has Been Taken From Ethiopia To Premier Mussolini

The jewel-encrusted crown of conquered Ethiopia has been presented to Premier Benito Mussolini.

It Duca received the symbol of vanquished Ethiopian glory from Marshal Rodolfo Graziani, former Italian viceroy of Abyssinia, who brought it from Addis Ababa, together with Haile Selassie's imperial scepter.

Both were captured when the Ethiopian capital fell to the Italians in May, 1936. Mussolini ordered that the gold crown and scepter be placed on display in Rome's Colonial Museum.

It Duca congratulated Graziani on his work in Ethiopia, especially for his victory on the southern front in the Ethiopian campaign.

The government announced that 136 Italian workers had died of illness or accident in Ethiopia from December, 1937, to February. The new deaths brought to 1,732 Italians officially reported dead there since Jan. 1, 1936.

Eight-Day Garden Party

Victoria Sets Dates For Show With New Contestants

Snowdrops are up, violets in blossom and with daffodils in flower people in Victoria are all of a different about the spring garden party. Which, believe it or not, lasts eight days and is unique on the Pacific coast. Elsewhere, too, for the matter of that.

With the dates set for May 4 to 11 inclusive, a very nice selected committee is currying Victoria's list of gardeners.

In addition to well-known estates such as those belonging to Lady Barnard at Esquimalt, Mrs. W. C. Nichol, Senator and Mrs. G. H. Barnard, Mrs. Biggarstaff Wilson, all sorts of garden enthusiasts have gone to Victoria to live, whose gardens, up-to-date, their owners considered, weren't quite up to snuff, or at least not good enough to go into a spring garden showing.

Now they are, so visitors will have more designs, plants and theories to argue about—part of the fun of garden week being, apparently, not only admiration, but argument.

HE SUFFERED AGONY IN WET WEATHER

Rheumatism Attacked Limbs And Body

He had been bothered with rheumatism for years. The pain in wet weather to use his own expression—was "indecipherable." But all that—gone now—thanks to Kruschen.

"I suffered with rheumatism for years. I dreaded wet weather, for during such periods the pain was continuous and indecipherable. To begin with, it was confined to my limbs, but in time I began to suffer as much agony in my body as I did in my limbs. When I began to take Kruschen Salts, I found it did me more good than all the other medicine I had taken put together. To-day, I have peace and freedom from pain, even during wet weather, and can heartily recommend Kruschen Salts to anyone who suffers from rheumatism."—N.M.

Rheumatic conditions are often the result of an excess of uric acid in the body. Two of the ingredients in Kruschen Salts have the power of dissolving uric acid crystals. Other ingredients in these Salts assist Nature to expel the dissolved crystals through the natural channels.

Lost Mining Stocks

Located In Mattress Purchased At Auction Sale

E. J. Prescott, Great War pensioner, bought a mattress at an auction sale. As he unloaded the mattress at his modest bungalow home in Calgary an envelope dropped to the ground.

"I was going to give it to my little girl to play with, then I saw it contained stocks of some kind," he said. The envelope contained mining shares worth $300.

He immediately notified the police, the owner, Mrs. C. E. Kitcher, of Calgary, was found. The stocks were returned to her two hours before she boarded a train en route to England.

Do Fast Work

Industrial Britain says the only car-washing equipment of its kind in Great Britain, and the second in the world, has been installed in the large Sheffield garage recently opened by Viscount Nuffield. Thirty men are employed on this car-washing action, which works on chain principle, and by which cars can be washed and lubricated at the rate of one every eight minutes.

Birds find it easy sailing above a steamer for two reasons: Air currents are deflected upward by the ship's movement, and warm air from the funnels also causes rising air columns.

First Indoor Flight

An indoor flight was made for the first time in history when an aeroplane was flown in a closed hall. An autogyro, designed by Professor Focke and piloted by Fraulein Hanselitch, to whom Marshal Goering gave the title of flight-captain, rose to the roof of the Deutschlandhalle, Berlin, flew along, turned round, and descended without mishap.

Sensible Advice

Enemy Subject Of Great Britain Once Gave Services To Empire

The late Baron Sir Rudolf Carl Von Slatin Pasha was at one and the same time, an Austrian baron, an English knight, an Egyptian pasha. Briefly, what Lawrence was to Arabia Slatin Pasha was to the Sudan. He was Inspector-General of the Sudan, married to a British young radiologist, half-Austrian, half-English. They live in London. Captive for 11 years Slatin Pasha returned after a romantic escape to become Inspector-General of the Sudan until the Great War. Then he returned to Austria. But for his services to Great Britain neither title nor decorations were taken away. Despite his being an enemy subject after the War, he even continued to credit his pay.

A Matter Of Opinion

Two friends met in the street. One of them had had his arm broken in a motor accident and was carrying it in a sling.

"Say," asked the first, "it's too bad about your arm! How long will you have to carry it in a sling?"

The injured man shrugged.

"There's a slight difference of opinion about that," he replied. "My doctor says two weeks—and my lawyer says twelve!"

World Powers Are Giving Thought To Importance Of Submarines In Naval Plans

World powers, engaged in an unprecedented armaments race, are giving particular thought to importance of the submarine in their naval calculations.

Mindful of the efficacy of underwater craft during the Great War, major powers to-day have under construction 91 submarines. The actual number projected is not known. An undetermined number were added to the various fleets last year.

This concentration of submarine building is disclosed in the 1938 edition of the British admiralty's official returns of British and foreign fleets, excepting Soviet Russia's status, as her naval expansion program has not been divulged.

The report showed Italy has outstripped all other countries with her accelerated submarine construction, and, with completion of 24 vessels now under construction, she takes the lead in numerical strength for this type of craft.

During 1937 Italy added 17 submarines to her fleet, bringing her total to 81. With the additional 24, she supplants the United States, the former leader, whose fleet strength is shown at 84 with 13 building.

Meanwhile Great Britain has completed three submarines and has 18 under construction, which will give her a total of 70. France is building 19 to supplement her present strength of 75, and Germany has 19 on the slips. This marks Germany's largest submarine program since pre-war days, and when completed will bring her total to 42.

Another phase of Italy's naval expansion is revealed in her stepped-up production of minor war vessels, especially the speedy motor torpedo boats. In this classification Italy is credited with 47 units, compared with Germany's 12, while Britain and France have eight each. Commonly called "mosquitoes," these boats are rated up to 50 knots. Britain is building 12 more.

The potential menace from the air in future wars has introduced a new defensive technique in naval construction. Ships in course of construction are being equipped with heavier armor protection, especially the more vital parts, and powerful anti-aircraft batteries are being installed.

Instances of this change is disclosed in the armament of the latest British escort vessels. The Egret, laid down last year, is to mount eight high-angle guns of four-inch calibre, in addition to five smaller guns, although she will be only of 1,200 tons displacement with a speed of 19½ knots.

All new British warships will carry powerful armament to deal with aerial attack. The aircraft carrier Arc Royal is armed with 16 high-angle guns of a new calibre, 4½ inches.

Another Victoria Film

Victoria And Albert Will Be Photographed In Technicolor

A film of the private life of Queen Victoria, to set beside that of the Queen's public life as revealed in Victoria the Great, is to be made immediately by Mr. Herbert Wilcox with Miss Anna Neagle once again as the Queen and Mr. Anton Walbrook as the Prince Consort.

The party to be covered is that from the wedding of the Queen, which was not reproduced in the last film, to her death at Osborne House. Whereas Victoria the Great had only occasional scenes done in color, the whole of Victoria and Albert will be photographed in technicolor.

Public interest in the lives of great British monarchs, whetted by the film story of Henry VIII, has been greatly stimulated by the Queen Victoria film. So wide has been the demand for treatment of incidents which were omitted from that film that Mr. Wilcox has decided to delay the film of Nelson, which was to have been his next production, in order to give his attention at once to the making of a companion picture to Victoria the Great—London Times.

Lots of us are looking for the path of least persistence.

Many Radios In Australia

Government Collects Four Dollar License Fee On Every Set

There are now more than 1,000,000 radio sets in operation in Australia, according to H. P. Brown, the Director General of Posts and Telegraphs, quoting the number of licenses taken out in the country. These figures, he stated, showed that there was a wireless set in 62 per cent. of the homes of Australia, a radio-density only surpassed by five other countries, the United States, Denmark, Great Britain, Sweden and New Zealand, in that order.

Whereas the first 500,000 licenses in Australia took more than nine years to obtain, the second 500,000 were added in the last four years, said Mr. Brown. About 62 per cent. of the licenses were in the metropolitan areas, where 80 houses in every 100 had a receiver. In the country districts, 44 houses in every 100 were equipped.

The Government collects a license fee of $4 on every receiver. More than 50 per cent. of the amount collected is used for programs broadcast over Government national stations—Australian Press Bureau.

An Open Question

What Is Correct Pronunciation Of Ireland's New Name

London.—When the Irish Free State was constituted Eire under the new constitution, Eamon de Valera and his compatriots raised a problem for the English-speaking world—how to pronounce "Eire." London columnists seized on the subject as a welcome diversion from the ever-present topics of politics and economics.

During his conversations with Mr. de Valera, Donalds Secretary Malcolm MacDonald called it "Alrah," to rhyme with Sarah, a pronunciation most Irish claim to be correct. When Clement Attlee, leader of the opposition in the House of Commons, referred to the Irish trade discussions, he called it "Air-yay." Other M.P.s pronounced it "Eera-ra"—or the equivalent of "air."

A Gaelic contributor to The London Daily Telegraph says it will be quite correct if John Bull rhymes the word with "fairly." Another suggests "Eerie" would be more appropriate.

Alfred Duff Cooper, first lord of the Admiralty, however, has solved the problem to his own satisfaction. So that when he is concerned Eire remains just plain Ireland.

"We do not call Sweden 'Sverige' as the Swedes do, nor do Germans insist their country should be called 'Deutschland,'" he said. "Hence Ireland is good enough for me."

World Poultry Congress

To Be Held In Cleveland, July And August, 1939

At the first semi-annual meeting of the general committee of the seventh World Poultry Congress which will be held in Cleveland, Ohio, in July-August, 1939, Fred C. Elford, Special Poultry Commissioner of Canada and honorary member of the General Executive Board, discussed briefly the value and importance of a poultry congress to the country in which it was held. Speaking from actual experience as the General Director of the third World Poultry Congress which was held in Ottawa in 1927, Mr. Elford emphasized the international aspects and the need for early planning so that, through early and authentic information, other nations might be enabled to participate fully in the exposition.

Reports of the various committees indicated that a great amount of work had already been done in respect to the program, congress facilities and housing, entertainments, exhibits, publicity, tours, and transportation. The reports also gave evidence of the magnitude of the undertaking and the assurance that there will be something of value and interest for every person attending the congress and the exposition. Canada will be an active participant in the forthcoming congress as it has been in the others previously held. 2247

Ocean Travel

Life On A Liner Usually More Luxurious Than At Home

Life on the ocean wave is indeed a series of paradoxes wherever you look at it. To begin with, it is unreal and unnatural that we should take a metal box, fill it with a great deal more metals and minerals, and then have it actually float.

When someone had achieved this considerable miracle it next occurred to the curious and fabled mind of man that life in the said floating box should be made far more sumptuous and elegant than it is for the average passenger in his own home. One result of this is that people who rarely dress for dinner in their land-lubbery domesticity spruce themselves into boiled shirts and new gowns when they are at large on the uneasy surface of an ocean's misty middle.

A nice example of the urbane attitude to seafaring life was recently given me by one woman who asked another about her wardrobe for a passage to the United States. The answer was concise. "You're on an eight-day boat, you don't change on the first and last night; therefore, you want six evening dresses." The idea of doing twice in the same garment above the cod and currents did not come from Bonnie Banks of Newfoundland was apparently inapplicable to a correct feminine mind. Those, again, who would never afford caviar in their own larders now find it lying about before every eye as though it were potage origina. For some inexplicable reason it is a point of honor with shipowners to see that their clients never stop eating. Should a steward observe a passenger merely gazing vacantly at the ocean or pondering profoundly on the nature of things he must immediately assault him with soup or sandwiches. No sooner has one meal been finished than the hors d'oeuvre of the next one lies laid out.

Not the most lavish or Lucullan of land hotels keeps flinging food at its patrons (without extra charge) in this astounding, embarrassing and hopelessly unhygienic manner.

But everything on the ocean, be the weather calm or rough, is topsyturvy. The phrase about being "all at sea" was not composed for nothing.—Ivor Brown in the Manchester Guardian.

Land Grants

Query Is Answered Regarding Disposition Of Lands In Manitoba

The question of Leslie Mutch (Lib. Winnipeg South) as to whether an order-in-council was passed by the federal government in 1870 making a grant of land to every child born in that area which afterwards became Manitoba was answered in the House of Commons by Resources Minister Cram.

Mr. Cram said no such order-in-council was passed in 1870 but the Manitoba Act of 1870 and an order-in-council of April 25, 1871, as amended by order-in-council of April 3, 1873, provided for grants of 340 acres of land to children of half breed heads of families residing in Manitoba on July 15, 1870, when the province became part of Canada.

Vagaries Of Fashion

Can Wipe Out One Industry And Produce Another

Textile industries always gamble with the dictates or vagaries of fashion. Female styles at any time can easily wipe out an industry. Of course, it also may produce a new one. Thus rayon, in which Canada is vitally interested, has harmed natural wool producers. The farmers who breed and keep sheep are constrained to induce the wearing of more woollen garments. The South African wool council has decided to conduct a national publicity campaign for wool. The council has set aside $50,000 from its general funds—which are raised by a levy on all wool produced in the Union—for advertising in the press, on posters and through the post in an endeavor to make South Africans wear more wool. This is a part of a co-ordinated international campaign sponsored by all wool-producing countries, to counter the advances of synthetic textile materials with propaganda showing the immense advantages that natural wool has over its chemically-produced competitors.—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Hospital Costs

Statistics For Canada Show Only Private Rooms Yield Revenue

Statistics from Canadian hospitals reveal that it costs on the average in Canada $5.01 per day for a private room, $2.79 for a semi-private room, and $1.98 in a public ward. These figures prevail in the average Canadian centre. From the amount of revenue thus received one might imagine that the hospitals should be paying institutions. On the debit side of the ledger, however, is the cost per patient per day. This amounts to $3.23 for all patients, so that there is a deficit shown with the exception of private room revenue. It might be argued that the charge for other services might be increased, but anyone entering a hospital for any length of time finds the prevailing rate sufficiently high. While conditions in the business world may vary, the hospital rates are fairly constant. In the past 12 years they have shown an increase of only 3.6 per cent.—Municipal World.

Children Cheer Queen Mary

Hundreds of shrill young voices cheered Queen Mary at Drapers Hall, where she visited the fourth anniversary display by children of the play centres in London. The Queen, a lover of children, has a keen interest in the play centre movement, which caters to the amusement of children in the poorer and crowded districts of London.

In England, 162,922 factories and 83,110 workshops are registered with the Government.

No longer will scientists, archaeologists and explorers be able to excavate Eskimo ruins in Canada's Northwest Territories and carry off what they find.

New regulations, now effective, require all archaeological specimens to be submitted to the Dominion government. Anything required by the National Museum of Canada will be retained and the remainder will be returned to the finder only on the condition that they be permanently deposited in some public institution, in Canada or elsewhere, where they will be available for study.

At one time the rule in archaeological research was "finders keepers." However, the League of Nations set to work and finally recommended to all countries in excavation work was liberty, a standard set of rules, chief aim being to ensure to each country the retention of anything dug up in its own domain if so desired.

In 1930, the council of the Northwest Territories adopted an ordinance for protecting Eskimo ruins. This required permits from the commissioner of the territories for examination and excavation of archaeological ruins. These regulations have now been supplemented by the addition of the clauses recommended by the League of Nations.

The new section in the Eskimo ruins ordinance, recently approved by the council of the Northwest Territories, follows:

"All archaeological specimens collected by the holder of a permit shall be submitted to the commissioner for examination by the archaeological officers of the Dominion government. Whatever specimens are required to complete the collections of the National Museum of Canada shall become the property of that institution; the remainder shall be returned to the holder of the permit on condition that he undertakes to deposit them permanently in some public institution where they will be available for study."

"If the holder of the permit, however, requests permission to retain the entire collection for a reasonable period in order to facilitate its description in a scientific report, the commissioner is empowered to grant his request."

Fewer Royal Warrants

But Compensation Is Given To Shops

It has been decided to issue Royal Warrants only to firms who have supplied the King and Queen's household with goods when they lived at 145, Piccadilly, and are still doing so at Buckingham Palace. This decision means a big alteration in the present list. Future warrants will be given after the probation period, namely, two years of satisfaction, states the London Daily Sketch, which reports that Queen Mary has also been through the list of warrant holders for her household and pruned it considerably. To soften the loss the King has approved a plan which the Lord Chamberlain is carrying out shop by shop. All shopkeepers who held a warrant under King George V. but have not had it extended to the present King are to be allowed to display the Royal Arms, and Lord Cromer is sending out small signed slips in purple type giving the permission and stating that the holder was appointed to King George V.

Oldest Married Couple

The oldest practicing physician in India is Sir Teemaji Bhikaji Nariman. He is still going strong and, incidentally, he and Lady Nariman have been married 89 years. They are announced as "the oldest married couple in the world." The time would seem impossible were it not for the fact that they were married when each was at the ripe old age of five years, following an old Indian custom.

FLIN FLON

"The Story of Its Finding and Position To-day"

By FRATT KUBEN

HOLIDAYS, WITH PAY, FOR FLIN FLON MINERS

I had heard of this unusual, but very humane, treatment of employees to men on daily pay, so went into the subject pretty thoroughly at the mines.

This year (1937) there are 1,109 men enjoying holidays at the firm's expense, 920 of them being wage workers and 189 on salary. They will have an average of nine days each, which means they have been employed four years; as the basis is one week after two years and an extra day each year up to two full weeks.

I found that of the 1,417 men employed during 1935 only 2% were not in the plant at the end of the year. 1936 was the average during 1936, and 1,729 are now on the payroll.

I saw some of the men on the train returning to the mines after their holidays. Most had gone home to the farm or city and helped out their parents, but they actually seemed happy to get back to the life at Flin Flon.

Single men live in bunk houses on the company property or board around the town, but they seemingly are being housed in the future. The company has had to convert many of its bunk houses into apartments for married couples (and the numbers are 986 married and 722 unmarried).

Most of the travelling round town is done on Shank's Mare, but where there were only about 10 autos last year, there are now nearly 200, including taxis and a new autobus service running to Phantom Lake at 25c return.

It should not be much longer before good roads reach this district from Saskatchewan and Manitoba. There's a heavy agitation now to use Southern Saskatchewan farmers and their teams to build roads in the North and thus help out both sections.

All these developments are making Flin Flon a better place to live in. Another one being the good roads that are being finished this summer, and resort and hotel this year established at Beaver Lake, 22 miles away.

You have a lot of good stories coming yet about Flin Flon, but just here I want to thank the Hudson Bay Mining & Smelting Co., Ltd., officials at both Winnipeg and Flin Flon—for their unfailing courtesy. There are too many names to mention—nor would they care for publicity—but they're all doing a wonderful job for Manitoba and Saskatchewan and thus prospering individually as well.

TESTED RECIPES

GLORIOUS DESSERTS THAT SPELL THRIFT

What would you do if you had these things in your pantry—a cup of stewed green peas; a cup of plain rice; 3 cups raisins; 3 slices of canned pineapple and a few marshmallows to fill the bowl with? Would you let the plums for your lovely lunch, give the marshmallows to the boys and serve the plums for breakfast?

Of course you could do that, but there is something more interesting and that is to take those few odds and ends of left-overs and make them into four different desserts, fairly glowing with beauty and charm—enough to serve 32 persons. That seems hard to believe but it can be done and all the help you need is some jelly powder. You can count on the vivid colors and flavors of jelly powder to transform the plain, inexpensive ingredients into unusual desserts, which, when they are served, never give a hint of their thrifty origin.

Incidentally, green peas plums got their name in an interesting way. They were first called "Reine Claude" after the Queen of France I. In the 16th century, then, a clergyman named Gage introduced them to England and they have carried his name ever since. Here is a way to fix up that cup of green peas so that they will be fit to serve your clergyman when he comes to dine with you.

Jellied Green peas Plums

1 package lime flavoured jelly powder
1 cup warm water
1 cup juice from plums
1 cup stewed fresh or canned green peas
Dissolve jelly powder in warm water. Add plum juice. Chill. When slightly thickened, fold in plums. Turn into individual molds. Chill until firm. Serves six.

This new version of the old standby, rice pudding, will give you quite a thrill. The children too will love the creamy rice taste and the added flavor of the fruit. Nothing of the plums remains in it. If you were to taste it without knowing what it was, you'd stop and wonder a moment. It's quite different.

Everybody seems healthy, though and nobody in want, which is a good situation when you're 580 miles from Winnipeg and there's only one train every second day. This, by the way, is an ideal thing for keeping out undesirable and few who are not wanted stay long in Flin Flon.

HOW FLIN FLON WAS NAMED

You read about this earlier in our article, but the original book was either completely worn out or lost. With the development of the mine, an interest in the book was aroused and a search for a copy began. First it was found that two editions had been published in London, one in 1905 at $4. and one in 1911 at 6d., but the publishers had gone out of business in 1914. SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

MARCH 27

CORRECTING WRONG IDEAS OF RELIGION

Golden Text: This people honoreth me with their lips, but their heart is far from me. Lesson: Mark 7:1-13. Devotional reading: Psalm 24:1-6.

Explanations and Comments

Pharisees and Scribes Criticize the Failure of the Disciples to Observe Ceremonial Abstinences, Mark 7:1-5. Pharisees and scribes had come from Jerusalem for the express purpose of watching Jesus to see if they could obtain evidence to use against him. They were zealous guardians of Jewish customs, and they noted how the disciples (and doubtless Jesus himself) ate their bread without first washing their hands. They questioned Jesus concerning the disciples' failure to conduct themselves in the manner prescribed by tradition. The washings and abstinences that are spoken of here had no relation to cleanliness or hygiene, but were mere ceremonial observances that had grown up around the law.

The Reply of Jesus, Mark 7:6-13. His enemies accused Jesus (through his disciples) of transgressing the tradition of the elders, the precepts of men. He in turn accused them of transgressing the commandment of God. In his counter-charge Jesus quoted to them Isaiah 29:13. Moffat's translation is excellent: He said to them, Isaiah made a grand prophecy about you hypocrites—as it is written,

This people honors me with their lips, but their heart is far away from me. Vain is their worship of me. For the doctrines they teach are, 'We leave the commandment of God, and hold fast the tradition of men.' This is a most startling announcement. Jesus declared in that statement that the moment which leads me into subjugation to tradition is one of departure from the commandment of God.

British Member of Parliament Tells Joke Against Him

Back in the news, through his amicably settled legal action, is Will Thorne, British M.P., who always has a fund of amusing stories. One he enjoys telling against himself—and his fellow members of Parliament—concerns a constituent who applied to him for admission tickets to the Strangers' Gallery of the House of Commons. Mr. Thorne replied that he could not comply with the request as "the House" was not sitting on the date named by the applicant. "Not to be outdone," Mr. Thorne says, "that constituent wrote to me again. 'As the Houses of Parliament will be closed,' he said, 'please send me two tickets to the Zoo. They will do equally well.'"

UNITED EMPIRE POLICY REQUIRED FOR EMERGENCIES

London.—The United Kingdom government, working in close consultation with the Dominion governments, is endeavoring to evolve a program to meet the increasingly grave international situation, was reported strongly divided over foreign policy.

Rumors of cabinet dissension were heard in the House of Commons yesterday in the wake of Prime Minister Chamberlain's speech in which he parried persistent opposition demands for a definite statement on the government's attitude toward Czechoslovakia, and the course planned with France in connection with the Spanish crisis.

No confirmation whatever could be obtained in regard to the rumors.

Informed circles believed Mr. Chamberlain's cautious statement in the house concerning Spain indicated the government was making time pending consultations with the Dominions.

It was pointed out the Dominions always are advised on the latest moves by the United Kingdom government but suggested that a new foreign policy already had been submitted to the Dominions for their approval were dismissed as "fantastic."

Moreover, the reference to the Dominions by Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, in a House of Lords speech showed Great Britain was anxious to have the dominions as well as the people of her own country behind her in any steps she may take to deal with the grave situation of Europe.

Lord Halifax said that British foreign policy must be conducted "so it may deserve and command support in this country of a united people, and in the dominions of a united empire."

Lord Halifax said that the German coup in Austria was a ruthless application of power politics but added: "Nothing short of war could put the clock back and the statesmen of the League of Nations are not prepared to go to war on this issue."

Lord Halifax told the upper house Great Britain was confronted by "a fait accompli unparalleled in history" and admitted he had told Hitler when he visited the fuhrer last November he did not suppose "anyone in this country was concerned to maintain the status quo in Europe for all time."

He insisted, however, he had urged the British view that no European changes should be made by violence.

He said the world "has been brought face to face with the extremely ugly truth that neither treaty text nor international law have any influence in dealing with power politics" where "force and force alone decide."

Lord Halifax outlined the objectives of British foreign policy as follows:

1. It must be conducted in the face of the present situation so it "may deserve and command support in this country of a united people, and in the dominions of a united empire."
2. "It must be our purpose to reassert the claims of international law as opposed to the exercise of force in the settlement of international disputes."
3. Everything possible must be done on the side of settling international disputes by negotiation.
4. "Means should be devised to direct the mind of nations as to the removal of injustice as to the maintenance of peace."
5. Britain "must for these purposes show itself prepared not only by way of material and equipment but in the spirit, determination and discipline of its people."

Ovation For Oldest Member

Ottawa.—R. S. White (Cons. St. Antoine-Westmount), was given an ovation as he took his seat in the House of Commons, March 15. It was his 82nd birthday anniversary and on his desk was a huge basket of flowers, the gift of his fellow Conservative members. Mr. White is the oldest member in the house.

Relief Costs

Federal Government Asked To Assume Fifty Per Cent.

Ottawa.—Conflicting views of east and west on what the federal government should be asked to do in taking unemployment relief costs off municipalities were finally reconciled in the resolution committee of the conference of Canadian mayors and municipalities.

Mayor George Miller, of Vancouver, chairman of the committee, offered a resolution asking the Dominion government, pending its assumption of full responsibility, to assume 50 per cent. of the costs of unemployment relief, including medical assistance and hospitalization, conditioned on the provinces assuming at least 40 per cent. of the costs. Leaving 10 per cent. to the municipalities plus local administration costs.

Under the present arrangement the Dominion makes lump-sum contributions to the provinces as grants in aid for unemployment relief. The grants are made in monthly instalments and the maximum is 40 per cent. of the relief cost. The remaining 60 per cent. of the cost is met by the provinces and the municipalities with the contribution ratio varying in different areas.

Dr. R. H. Coats, Dominion statistician, told the conference of efforts the Dominion is making towards achieving uniformity in municipal statistics so that they will be on a comparable basis.

A German Austria

Nazi Regime Takes The Place Of Former Order

Vienna.—Austria's Nazi masters have swept away the last traces of her sovereignty with the efficiency of a new broom.

Customs, institutions, men vanished. Nazi regimentation appeared and with it worry, rumor, denunciation and sober second thoughts.

The official gazette carried a long list of "traffic accidents" and other foreigners fled. Foreigners planned flags of their countries to their lapels for protection.

Friends were afraid to talk to friends, business colleagues were suspicious of each other, fearful they had made too loyal or too disloyal utterances in the past. Telephone usances made elaborate codes to assure themselves of the identity of their listeners.

Jewish stores were placarded. Trucks drove up to them and carted away goods.

Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, arranged for withdrawal of the Austrian schilling from circulation. The German reichsmark will be German Austria's money.

Concerts To Be Broadcast

C.B.C. Completes Arrangements With Canadian Symphony Orchestra

Ottawa.—The Canadian Broadcasting Corporation announced it had completed arrangements with two of the nation's most widely-known symphony orchestras to broadcast weekly over its national network and was negotiating with others.

The corporation said that from May 5 to Oct. 13 it would carry a weekly one-hour broadcast by the Toronto Promenade Symphony orchestra under direction of Reginald Stewart. The concerts will be sent to the National Broadcasting Company in the United States as an exchange feature.

Starting Oct. 25, the corporation said, the CBC will start a broadcast series of 20 concerts by the Toronto Symphony orchestra under direction of Sir Ernest MacMillan.

The corporation has proposed to the Vancouver Symphony orchestra that it broadcast parts of its Sunday afternoon concerts from Stanley park.

Newspapers Good Education For Children States University Official

Leeds, Eng.—The vice-chancellor of the University of Leeds would like to see school children instructed in the art of reading newspapers. Sir James Baillie said in an address he felt newspapers performed a profoundly important function in "these days of a gradually, but not by any means completely, educated democracy."

Britain Plans Coal Probe

London.—Prime Minister Chamberlain announced in the House of Commons a department committee composed of persons independent of coal interests will inquire into the organization and methods of distribution of coal, coke and manufactured fuel.

Canadian Chilled Beef

London.—The first shipment of Canadian chilled beef reached the London market last week.

Suicide Wave

Many Deaths Of Prominent People Reported In Vienna

Vienna.—Newspapers reported a wave of suicides and arrests among prominent Viennese.

In addition to the deaths of the former vice-chancellor, Major Emil Fey, his wife and son, the newspaper Telegraf stated Friedrich Retting, head of the Jenbacher Steel Works, committed suicide with his daughter, and that Prof. Bayer, 60-year-old Innsbruck doctor, and his daughter killed themselves with drugs.

Two renowned Austrian doctors were reported in custody. They were Professor Otto Loewi, Nobel prize winner in medicine, and Dr. Heinrich Neumann, noted eye, ear and throat specialist, who last year treated the Duke of Windsor. Dr. Neumann, a Jew, many months ago was said to have refused to treat Chancellor Hitler of Germany.

A Vienna despatch to the Paris Soir stated Sigmund Freud, world-famous Jewish psychologist, was reported under arrest. Now 82, the father of psycho-analysis has been in ill health for some time.

Another despatch to the Paris Excelsior stated that Gottfried Kunkwald, noted Jewish economist and financial adviser to the government, was found dead at his home. Baron Louis de Rothschild, head of the Vienna branch of the famed banking family and several times host to the Duke of Windsor, was among those arrested.

Western Fare

Buffalo Tongue Sandwiches Served At Parliament Buildings In Ottawa

Ottawa.—Buffalo tongue sandwiches have reached the parliament buildings. The idea came out of the west, and prairie members have been regaling eastern members with the conviction these were the last word in sandwiches. Now the easterners are prepared to admit the western members were right.

Each year Senator A. D. McRae, of Vancouver, holds a reception for senators, members of parliament and the press gallery. This reception was held and buffalo tongue sandwiches were given an auspicious introduction. In fact, the guests at the reception were emphatic that this was the greatest innovation for the benefit of those who know good food when they eat it since the dim distant past when it was first discovered that ham co-operated well with eggs.

Protect Windsor Castle

Defence Against Air Raids Has Been Completed

London.—Windsor castle's defence against air raids has been completed.

The turleted castle, legendary site of King Arthur's knights of the round table, has received a full supply of gas masks for protection against attack.

Anti-gas chambers have been installed and tested including those for King George, Queen Elizabeth and their two princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret.

GREAT BRITAIN PROMISES NAVAL AID FOR FRANCE

Paris.—Great Britain promised France naval aid if Italian and German forces in Spain menaced France's north frontiers.

In return, Premier Leon Blum told his cabinet France would maintain non-intervention in Spain.

By this decision, France kept her word with government Spain shut to men and munitions and dropped her plans for an immediate effort with Great Britain to negotiate a Spanish truce.

That the Spanish government appeared to have stopped the insurgent drive toward the Mediterranean, at least temporarily, also was cited by Blum as enabling France to keep her frontier shut.

Preparations, nevertheless, went ahead to assure the security of France's frontier as well as the freedom of communication of the Mediterranean, vital sea roadway of France and the British Empire.

The army, it was said, judged the 70,000 troops now garrisoned on the Spanish border as sufficient under any circumstances. The navy was planning to add extra ships to its Mediterranean patrol.

Mr. Chamberlain's answer to Blum's appeal was taken to the French foreign office by Sir Eric Phipps, the British ambassador, before the prime minister announced to the House of Commons that Britain would adhere to Spanish neutrality.

But it was said, the armistice plan was held in abeyance and might be made at any time. French officials had said that France would have "no alternative" but to open her frontier to aid Spain's harassed government under Spanish joint rule.

The British government, it was learned, also asked more time to take a definite stand on Czechoslovakia. Blum had told London there was "not a moment to lose" in the formation of a French-British agreement with Czechoslovakia.

Informed sources viewed Britain's promise to work with France to keep Mediterranean communications open as a logical sequence to the Nyon anti-piracy accord and the growing military and naval collaboration between London and Paris.

The chamber of deputies will be asked to approve an increase of 3,200,000,000 francs (about $106,000,000) in France's national defence borrowing for 1938 as a matter of urgency.

The request for British aid in obtaining a Spanish armistice came after the appeal of Spain's premier, Juan Negrin, for French help to keep government resistance from collapsing.

Accommodation Booked Up

Many Prospectors Going To Yellowknife Area This Spring

Prince Albert, Sask.—Prospect of a premium price in the Yellowknife area, this spring was confirmed in a despatch to the local offices of Canadian Airways, Ltd., from its Toronto office.

All available accommodation over the route to Yellowknife, both from Prince Albert and Edmonton, has been booked from April 1 to the probable date of breakup, around the middle of April.

Supplies and equipment are at premium prices in the Yellowknife area at present, due to difficulties experienced in water-freighting last autumn, which means that parties will be obliged to fly in their own materials from the railroad, at greatly increased cost.

Cheered King And Queen

London.—Cheering crowds of men, women and children, many of them waving flags, greeted the king and queen when they toured the working class district of Battersea and Lambeth in south London. Their majesties saw rehousing developments.

Would Change Monetary System

Toronto.—Canada should consider revamping her entire monetary system, Premier Hepburn of Ontario told the annual dinner of the Canadian institute of mining and metallurgy.

ON THEIR WAY TO THE CHINA FLEET

These fifteen Chief Petty Officers of the Royal Navy were photographed as they sailed from Vancouver on the Empress of Japan for Hong Kong, where they will join the British "China Fleet." They are on their way to the Mediterranean patrol and travelled across Canada to sail on the Empress before she left Canada's Pacific port.

How Are Life Insurance Funds Invested?

Answer.—In government and municipal bonds and debentures, first mortgages and other securities.

Question.—What do these investments accomplish?

Answer.—They help to finance the undertakings of our Federal and Provincial Governments—our municipalities—our industries and public utilities. They also aid in building new homes and schools—and in improving farms.

Q.—What is the total amount of Life Insurance funds invested in Canada?

A.—More than Two Billion Dollars.

Q.—What does this sum represent?

A.—It represents the accumulated savings of more than 3,500,000 Canadian men and women.

Q.—How do I benefit from these investments?

A.—Through good roads, new schools and local improvements made by your own municipalities, which, in turn, create employment.

Q.—What is the guarantee back of these invested funds?

A.—The security of the individual loans, in addition to the integrity of the borrowers—whether governments, corporations, or individuals.

Q.—Have the Life Insurance companies of Canada kept faith with their policyholders?

A.—Yes. In good times and bad, they have fulfilled every guarantee 100 cents on the dollar.

This is the fourth of a series of messages sponsored by Life Insurance Companies operating in Canada. The fifth, to appear in two weeks' time, will discuss Life Insurance investments in Alberta.

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued

He scaled Lester's Wall, not soaring over it, but scrambling laboriously over it, and made his way to the fox burrow. He expected to find the fox going about its domestic duties innocent of the conspiracy afoot to deprive it of its breakfast and its future.

He saw no fox. He approached the entrance to its subterranean abode. Ten yards from it he stopped short. At his feet the green grass was stained with red blood. Now he understood the full meaning of a remark Captain Duff Hooper had made at dinner the night before.

"We should have jolly good sport," the captain had said. "Farmers report numerous foxes in the neighborhood. This morning Lord Felstone's pack had a splendid run. The fox nearly got to earth but they finally made the kill in Kingsley's Copse."

This then must be Kingsley's Copse, and that arterial smear the life-blood of the homing fox, mangled in its own front-yard, just two frantic leaps from sanctuary.

Ernest gave out a sound half groan, half oath.

"Too late," he said. He bent down to examine the entrance to the hole. He smelled a foxy smell. For some reason, at that moment, he felt an impulse to run back to the castle and tug Duff Hooper on his buck teeth with a heartfelt maykay.

As he was about to turn away from the hole, he heard a sound which started off as a defiant bark and ended in a frightened whimper. Thrusting his arm to the shoulder into the burrow, he touched fuzz. He drew out a feebly squirming cub. The little creature made it plain that after waiting all night for the return of its mother, it was very hungry. Ernest stowed the cub under his coat to keep it warm. He was in no danger of sharing the fate of the legendary Spartan boy, for the orphan was so young it could not bite, only nurse.

Ernest conveyed his captive back to the castle and smuggled it up to his tower room. He made no mention of it to any one for he had a feeling that they might consider that he was giving aid and comfort to the enemy in this one-sided war.

Having bedded the cub down on his overcoat in a closet, he tugged the bell-rope and summoned Sloat. "Get me a jug of warm milk at once, please," Ernest said.

Up time and again because of kidney troubles, you need more of GIN PILLS. GIN PILLS help you get your kidneys better than ever.

GIN PILLS FOR THE KIDNEYS

"Very good, sir."

"And see that a jug of milk is brought here every morning and evening."

"Yes, sir."

"I intend to take milk baths," said Ernest. "I hear they are good for the complexion."

Sloat departed to get the milk and to spread the news of this latest vagary of the mad American.

His soft-footed return found Ernest in the closet soothing the cub by stroking it. Ernest popped out of the closet and slammed shut the door.

"Thanks, Sloat," he said, taking the jug.

A plaintive whine came from the closet.

"What's that, sir?" asked Sloat.

"What's what?"

"That sound," sir.

"I heard no sound."

Once again the cub voiced its need for nourishment.

"There it is again, sir," said Sloat.

"It sounds like the cry of a very young baby."

"It is," said Ernest.

Sloat tried hard to remember that a well-trained servant does not show his emotions, especially the most un-British of them, inquisitiveness. But curiosity scored yet another triumph over fact.

"Naturally," inquired Sloat.

"Boy or girl, sir?"

"One of each."

"How old are they, sir?"

"Born this morning."

"Indeed, sir. And might I inquire, sir, where their mother is?"

"Oh, she's been done away with," said Ernest.

"Done away with, sir?" quavered Sloat.

"Eaten."

"My word!" was all Sloat could say. "My word!"

He seemed about to flee from this unnatural father and possible cannibal, when Ernest said:

"I'm joking, of course. There's no baby in the closet."

The cub made a liar of him with a yelp.

"You've fooled you, Sloat."

"I've astonished me, sir."

"The misleading ventriloquism," explained Ernest. "The ear is teaching me to throw my voice."

Sloat relaxed.

"I should like to learn how, sir. I could teach Cook."

The cub made sounds fairly lusty for one so young.

"Am I good or am I good?" said Ernest.

"Marvelous, sir," said Sloat. "I could swear there was baby, or a young animal in there."

"That's what practice does," said Ernest. "You may go now, Sloat."

"Thank you, sir," said Sloat, and bore his latest bulletin from bedlam to a waiting servant's hall.

Among those into whose receptive ears Sloat poured this and other tales of the corymbic conduct of the castle's tenant was Babette, maid to the Duchess of Beddington. Babette was from the south of France, of the race of Tartarin of Tarascon, which produces many poets but few reporters. The narrative with which Babette regaled her mistress while putting on that lady's evening face did not lack color however it may have shined on the score of accuracy.

"Quel type d'homme!" said Babette. "I eat toque."

"Don't jabber," said the duchess. She was an extensive lady known in her circle as "high-pockets."

"He is cracked in the kettle, that monsier American," said Babette.

"Shouldn't wonder," drawled the duchess. "Must be if he's a friend of George Bingley."

"This so droll one keeps bebes in his closet, and never wears the clothes," went on the maid.

"Never? Frugal of him," said the duchess.

"But he is of a richness formidable," said Babette, etching on an eyebrow, "and, on dit, he has the sheep's eyes for Lady Rosam."

"Mmmmm," said the duchess.

"Thought she was booked to marry that stick of a tin soldier."

"The betting in the servants' hall is even money to the contrary, Madame la Duchesse."

The Duke of Beddington, Bumpy to his intimates, came in to dress for dinner. He was an angular, bony chatter-box stooped by the weight of a mustache shaped like the horns of a water-buffalo. He had attempted to dye it red but it had come out an off-shade of purple.

As he insinuated himself into his stiff shirt his mate related to him the tid-bits about Ernest.

"Fella belongs in a loony-bin," said the duke. "Old Bingo was yarning about him at the club. Says he's not a bad sort, really, and scandalously rich. Why, the fella stumped up a thousand of the best for a month's rent of this old hulk without batting an eye."

"Babette says he owns the Mississippi River."

"Girl always exaggerates," said the duke. "Doubt if he owns more than half of it."

Dressed, he transported himself and mustache to the Great Hall, had three quick neat brandies, and passed on his version of the Ernest saga to a fellow guest, Major General Sir Frederick Cowley, K.C.B., known in the artillery as "Moosey Cowley" because of his name and a noticeable resemblance to that useful animal.

"Fella has a closestful of squawling babies, shoots foxes, and thinks he somebody in 'tvanhoe," but he own most of the Mississippi River," said the duke.

"Fancy!" said the major general. "Think I'll broach the subject of a slight loan," said the duke. "Say five thousand for a starter."

"Shouldn't you?"

"Why not, Moosey? Fella's a Yank. All Yanks have a weakness for titles. And I'm a real duke, aren't I? I'll wager you sumpence the fella will be tickled plaid to let me have say ten thousand."

"Doubt it."

"Nobody is that crazy."

"You're probably right," said the duke, sadly. "Well, Moosey, old sprout, here's mine in your wig."

"Toot-toot," said Sir Frederick, and they clinked glasses.

Sir Frederick handed on to the Hon. Mrs. Fordyce his information about Ernest, and she told Ronnie Pym, and he told Lady Gladys Wolton, and she told Colonel Fringle, D.S.O., and he told the Countess of Bathberry and she rushed to the powdering-room to scribble down the data for use in the next Dashing About With a Dowager column.

Which, under the pseudonym of "Godiva Gadabout" she conducted in one of the largest London dailies.

Ernest, unaware of the interest with which his advent was awaited, was playing nurse-maid to the fox cub behind locked doors when he heard a thumping at his door.

"Who is it?" he called out.

"Me, I," replied the voice of the Earl of Bingley. "May I come in, please?"

"One moment," said Ernest.

He bent close to the little fox.

"Now be a good cub—and keep quiet," he whispered.

The cub, full of milk and contentment, was licking the polish on Ernest's best shoes as he closed the closet door on it.

Ernest admitted the earl who was wearing the dinner-suit he had acquired on his return from the Boer War. Already the bow of his black tie had ridden around his collar and was diving out of sight.

The earl sniffed.

"I say, what sort of perfume do you use, Ernest?" he asked.

"I never use any, sir."

"Don't you notice a rather racy aroma?"

"No, sir."

Fastest Mile Run By Boy Who Overcame Handicap

For man to run a mile in four minutes has long been regarded as on the verge of the impossible. Those who know something of the limit of human capacity have hesitated to say it could not be done. But they have pointed out that the fastest mile ever put together on paper—a composite of the fastest quarters run by Taber, Lovelock, Cunningham and San Roman—adds up to three minutes and 58 4-5 seconds. Thus the "dream mile" could be no more than 10 yards or so slower than the greatest composite runner at the distance.

At Hanover, N.H., two whole seconds were clipped from the record mark, to bring the four-minute mile appreciably nearer the range of the possible. Glenn Cunningham, who a few weeks ago had told an interviewer that some day someone would beat 4:04 "but it won't be me," came within two-fifths of a second of being his own prophecy. His time was four minutes and 4-5 seconds. The fastest mile before this had been run by the London bank clerk, Wooderson, on a heavy track. A race between this pair, under conditions as nearly ideal as those at Hanover, would by all sports logic be an event of the century.

No comment on Cunningham's feat about would be complete without citing again the personal triumph which his success on the track embodies. As a lad, his life was despaired of for weeks after his legs had been frightfully burned in a schoolhouse fire. He took to running to repair the effects of the injury, as Detroit's Bill Bonthon also did, after being burned by a high tension wire. In overcoming a physical handicap both went far beyond the ordinary capacities of men. It would be a pleasing consummation to all sportsmen if the dream mile, whoever he is, were such a representative of the power of human resolution to defeat the cruelties of fate.—Detroit News.

A Lucky Accident

Opened Way To Fame And Fortune For Screen Actor

It was 30 years ago that Andy Devine, a child of 3 1/2 years, tumbled off a couch in the family's modest little home in Kingman, Arizona. Clutched in his fingers was a long, supple oliver of wood, which the child had slipped from the seam of a window shade. The little stick broke, a jagged end punctured Andy's throat—and there was set in motion a strange series of physiological disturbances that eventually led Andy to the gates of fame and fortune. That unhappy incident marked the birth of the now famous "gravel voice," a low rumbling disturbance of a high screeching whine that Andy is able to control at will—and which, counting screen and radio contracts, nets him in the neighborhood of $3,500 a week.

Liner Of The Future

Will Be Streamlined Glass-Enclosed Speedboat Is Prediction

The Atlantic liner of the future will be a streamlined, glass-enclosed speedboat capable of making the trip from New York to Southampton in 3 1/2 days.

This wonder ship was outlined by M. Pierre de Malglaive, of the French Line, and A. C. Hardy, engineer, in a paper read at the Institute of Marine Engineers.

Air in the enclosed vessels would be conditioned. Passengers could play games on the upper decks without being buffeted by winds or annoyed by gasses from the funnels. Temperatures would be regulated in accordance with the weather.

Passing of an Old-timer.

Oldtimers will regret to hear of the passing of Mr. T. E. Pugh, which occurred at Cardston March 21st.

He farmed in Stony Plain district for many years prior to leaving to reside with his son John E. Pugh, who is Indian agent at Cardston.

The late Mr Pugh farmed in England before coming to Canada and was essentially a "son of the soil." He was always interested in Community affairs. He was for many years a director of Stony Plain Agricultural Society, and occupied the President's chair when the Society was at its zenith.

He leaves to mourn his loss his widow and 3 sons—G. H. Pugh, Jasper; J. E. Pugh, at Cardston; W. F. H. Pugh, Winterburn Indian Reserve. His eldest son Leigh was killed in action during the World War.

The funeral was held Wednesday, March 23rd, at McLeod.

School Teachers' Convention.

Teachers of the districts surrounding Stony Plain listened to three very inspiring addresses in the local High School last Saturday.

Mr Barnett reviewed progress made in administration of education in this province; while Dr Lazerte dealt with the educative series.

Inspector Scott outlined the pros and cons of the large school units, and presented financial reports regarding them.

The speakers were all kept busy answering the many questions offered by the roomful of teachers.

Committees to commence work on the spring track meet were appointed, and various other business transacted.

Delegates appointed to the Calgary Easter convention were: Miss Weir, Stony Plain High School; Miss Osbadeleton, Carvel; and Miss Warr, of West Jasper Place.

The local group will meet again in the High school building on Wednesday, April 6, at 7:30

Twenty six teachers were in attendance at Saturday's meeting.

New Car Plates on Monday.

The new motor license plates for this year will go on sale on Monday next, March 25th. The new plates are a crimson on white color scheme.

Plates numbered from 1 to 6000 will be issued in Edmonton, and those numbered from 6001 to 18,000 will be issued in Calgary.

The special "medical" plates issued to doctors for the first time, will be numbered from 201 to 850.

There will be no change in license fees for the new year which ends March 31, 1939, except that the automatic reduction rate will apply to cars of 1928 or older make.

WE OWE YOU MONEY

Payable in CASH—ON DEMAND

IF yours is one of the 4,740,000 accounts in which people have dollars on deposit in Canada's chartered banks, your bank owes you money.

That money does not belong to The People, the government, the nation, or to your neighbour. It is YOURS.

If you are a savings depositor, the bank, in addition to providing safety, pays you interest on YOUR MONEY just as a borrower pays interest to the bank, for

WHAT IS A BANK?—It is an institution organized to receive deposits and to make loans; that is the mechanical description. But it is a much more human place than that; it means much more to YOU.

Your bank is a place where you can deposit money for yourself and your family, with every assurance that you can get it back whenever you call for it—in full and with interest.

The bank's books show your deposit as a sum of money it owes to you—must pay to you when you ask for it—a liability of the bank.

Your bank is, too, a place where persons worthy of credit may borrow for business or other legitimate purposes.

The borrower must be worthy. By worthy, we mean that because of his record for honesty and integrity, his business ability, and the things he owns, he may be counted on with reasonable certainty to be willing and able to repay. We MUST know that he is a "good risk", for we MUST keep YOUR deposit and those of all other depositors SAFE, against the day you call for what WE OWE YOU.

As a depositor, you are our creditor; we have to be prepared to pay you in full. Therefore we must do our utmost to collect in full as much as we loan, plus our costs of operation.

We pay interest for deposits and charge interest on loans. You will be surprised when we tell you the range of our costs, the smallness of our margin of profit.

Bank deposits are the money of certain people—not "The People". There is the substance of Canadian banking as plain as a pikestaff. You have known it for a long time; you can tell others know just whose money it is they speak of, when they talk about the community's claim to bank deposits.

More than 4,700,000 people in Canada—equal to more than 42 per cent. of Canada's population—have "money in the bank"—deposits lodged with Canada's chartered banks. Of these no fewer than 4,084,000 are savings depositors receiving interest on their money.

Canada's chartered banks have paid over $397,000,000 in interest on deposits in the last ten fiscal years.

Savings of the Canadian people, deposited in the chartered banks, now total nearly $1,580,000,000. The average savings deposit being $387.

There are about 660,000 current accounts of individuals and corporations totalling $679,000,000 in Canada's chartered banks.

It takes the equivalent of nearly three average savings accounts to make one loan of $1,000.

And it takes the net profits, over and above the costs of doing business, on scores of loans of $1,000 each for a year, to make up the loss of one single loan of $1,000.

This shows what care the banks must take in lending, if the depositors' funds are to be safeguarded, for the net profits of banks are less than one-half of one per cent. on their total assets.

Without deposits a bank could not long continue in business. YOUR MONEY remains on deposit in the bank ONLY AT YOUR WILL; and if you think the bank is lending recklessly, you will draw it out.

The bank must always keep itself in a position to pay you your deposit, in full, in cash, whenever you choose to call for it.

Canada's chartered banks realize that the establishing of your home, the happiness of your family, the education of your sons and daughters, their start in life, their progress in business, your provisions for a rainy day, your peace of mind in the twilight of life, may depend largely upon this money—money you have deposited in a bank—money YOUR BANK OWES TO YOU.

THE CHARTERED BANKS OF CANADA

Your local branch bank manager will be glad to talk banking with you. He will be glad to answer your questions, from the standpoint of his own experience. The next article in this series will appear in this newspaper. Watch for it.

Whist Drive Winners.

The second event in the series of whist drives the Ball Club is putting on, took place on Thursday, March 17th, in the town hall, with a good attendance. The winners were

Men's: Max Grolla 1, Carl Ender 2

Ladies: Mrs Gates 1, Mrs L Miller 2

Another drive will be held tonight. This will be the third and last in the series.

Amateur Theatricals

The colossal theatrical production of the season hereabouts, "You Wouldn't Fool Me," was staged Tuesday night in Kelly's Hall. Especial interest had been centered in this production by those interested in theatrical matters in general, and in amateur theatricals in particular. The participants are said to have concentrated to the limit on learning their parts, and the result was two hundred and fifty minutes of a smooth running and pleasing combination of drama and comedy. Some of those who took part are

Albert Wudel Mr Cameron
Edna Zucht Miss Cameron
Gae Michael Bruce O'Malley
Henry Jensen Chuffur Charlie
Marg. Gannon Nancy Cameron
Grace Costa Negro Maid
Eleanor McDonald

Grandma Cameron
Edna Irwin Mrs. Andrew Davey
Gus Horn Andrew Davey
Clifford Carmichael, Victor Gordon

No doubt the great success of the play is due in part to the efforts of Stage Manager Gus. When Gus does a stage job, it's like the refrigeration mechanic—he knocks 'em cold.
